2. Fees. A $100 fee is due at the time of submittal (check or exact cash only).

3. Site Plan. The site plan, drawn to scale, of the property must be provided to Planning Staff at the time of submittal. The site plan should show: property boundaries, building locations, building outlines, driveways, abutting streets, north arrow, applicant’s information and any other information that is significant to the request. A stamped survey may be required if the variance is in proximity to a property line and adjoining uses may be impacted.

4. Legal Description. The legal description of the property must be provided to Planning Staff at the time of submittal. The legal description can be found on a survey or a deed.

5. Letter of Hardship. A letter to the Board must be written explaining why the applicant is seeking a variance, and the hardship that would be experienced by the applicant should the variance not be granted. The hardship should not be created by the applicant, it should be due to unique circumstances existing on the property.

6. Letter from Property Owner. If the applicant is not the property owner, a letter from the property owner will be required stating that the applicant is authorized to act on the owner’s behalf in regard to the request.

7. Notification Fee. Planning staff is required to notify surrounding property owners within 300 feet of the property about the request and the meeting. The applicant is required to reimburse Washington County for the cost of mailing notifications and engineering review fees.

8. Attendance Required. Attendance at the meeting is required. If the applicant cannot attend the meeting, they may appoint someone to represent them. The applicant must notify Planning Staff in advance of the meeting if they are sending a proxy.

Note: Certain properties may be subject to private covenants or deed restrictions. Washington County cannot regulate or enforce covenants or deed restrictions. It is the responsibility of each individual property owner to be aware of and comply with any applicable covenants or deed restrictions. The applicable POA/HOA or other private parties may have the authority to take legal action as a result of a violation of these private covenants or deed restriction.
